

EVENING BULLETIN.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOV. 25, 1857.

To-morrow being Thanksgiving day, the Bulletin will not be published.

THANKSGIVING.—In accordance with the recommendation of Governor Morehead, we intend to devote to-morrow to thanksgiving and its customary adjuncts—that is, to the extent that an editor's funds will allow him to partake of the latter. We are gratified to believe that all our readers, while thanking Providence for past blessings, will be able to avail themselves of a bountiful repast. The prices of provisions are extremely reasonable, and if money is difficult to be obtained it is certain that a very small amount of coin will buy a disproportionately large quantity of eatables. The poor will be provided for by the generosity of our citizens, and our tables will mingle their incense from smoking turkeys and their accompaniments with the gustatory appreciation and thankfulness of epicures. Thanksgiving day will be celebrated in twenty-one States of this Union to-morrow, and we hope the large majority of the people of the United States, who will participate in that celebration, will not fail to render thanks to that almighty Dispenser from whom these and all our blessings flow.

The following is the Governor's proclamation:

PROCLAMATION.—The season has again arrived, when in obedience to established custom, it is deemed proper to set apart a day for the people to humble themselves before the throne of our Heavenly Father, and render thanks for the countless blessings bestowed upon them. We have been long in the enjoyment of unparalled prosperity, and throughout the world there is a spirit of general commercial distress, under Almighty guidance amid every apparent calamity, there is a moral power which makes it the minister of his will, and which is able "to overcome every evil with good." During the past season peace and quiet reigned over the land. The Providence of Heaven has given us rare and unique seasons of amid quiet reigns places." We have been more than ordinarily blessed with good health. The earth has yielded bounteously, and its fruits have been garnished by the unfeigned hand of industry. The country is scenes of great activity, and the great body of our people are free from suffering.

For these and all other blessings we are indebted to the goodness and mercy of God, and it becomes us to bow before the throne of mercy with hearts filled with thankfulness and gratitude.

WHEREAS, I. C. S. MOREHEAD, do hereby set apart and appoint Thursday, the 26th day of November, 1857, to be observed as a day of public thanksgiving and prayer, and do hereby recommend and request the people of Kentucky to observe the same.

In testimony whereof, I have set my hand and caused the seal of the Commonwealth to be affixed this 4th day of November, 1857, and in the 66th year of the Commonwealth,

By the Governor:

C. S. MOREHEAD,
MASON BROWN, Secretary of State.

BURNING OF THE RAINBOW.

FULL PARTICULARS.

SEVENTY-FIVE LIVES LOST.

BOAT AND CARGO TOTAL LOSS.

LOSS $175,000 TO $200,000.

We are indebted to Mr. Wm. B. Huston, the clerk of the ill-fated steamer Rainbow, for the following details of the destruction of that boat by fire:

The Rainbow, Capt. Holcroft commanding, on her way from New Orleans to Louisville, had on board from two hundred and fifty to three hundred souls, passengers and crew, all told, and about four hundred tons of freight, principally sugar, coffee, and molasses.

On the morning of the 21st inst., at about half-past two o'clock, while under way, some ten miles above Napoleon, and near the head of Island 74, the boat was discovered to be on fire. The officer of the deck, Mr. C. Whitlow, immediately ordered her to be run ashore. The order was promptly executed by Mr. Lamb, the pilot at the wheel, but so rapid was the progress of the flames that by the time the shore was reached they enveloped the entire boat, which presented a mass of fire from stem to stern. Those of the passengers and crew who were on the forward part of the boat escaped without difficulty. Those at the stern were cut off from any means of escape except by jumping into the water. Although it was but a few yards to the shore, but few of the latter escaped, except those who had the presence of mind to take life-preservers or something to sustain them in the water. No doubt many were burnt in their rooms. Some were overcome with fright and knew not which way to go, and would not jump into the water. The wheel-house next the shore was filled with men, women, and children. The beams burnt off, and the weight of the wheel careened it overboard, carrying with it a great many persons, but few of whom were saved.

All the books and papers being destroyed, it is utterly impossible to ascertain accurately the names of the lost or saved; but, after carefully comparing the statements of those that were saved, we cannot make the loss less than 60 to 75 human beings; all ushered into eternity without a moment's warning. Truly "in the midst of life we are in death." The officers without exception were saved.

CREW LOST.—Ed. Prather, first, and Wm. Rochester, second steward (colored), and Frank Starkemeyer and assistant, pastry cooks (Germans); third and fourth cooks (one white and one black), with fifteen of the crew, firemen, and deck-hands.

ASSISTANCE.—The Sovereign, bound down, fortunately was near at hand, and succeeded in picking up several of the passengers floating in the water, upon pieces of wood, &c. She took on board those of the saved who wished to return South. The Minnehaha soon came along, bound up, and several persons went off on her. A few hours afterwards the James E. Woodruff came up and took on board the crew and the remainder of the passengers, with the exception of a few who stayed to look for the remains of their lost friends.

ORIGIN OF THE FIRE.—The officers of the boat agree that the fire originated in the cook house, which being closed, they think that the fire was under full headway before bursting out, and then it was so far started, and the wind blowing very fresh, that nothing could be done to arrest its progress.

CARGO.—The cargo consisted of sugar, coffee, and molasses, 350 to 400 tons, all of which is a total loss.

PASSENGERS.—The passengers, with one or two exceptions, had retired to their rooms. Among them were several Californians, with their treasures of gold and their families, coming back to their homes, but, alas! they met with the cold embrace of Death in its most horrid form, instead of that of kindred and friends from whom they had so long been separated.

THE TREASURE AND JEWELRY LOST.—All the passengers lost everything, money, clothes, and all they had except what was on their persons.

A large amount of money in gold and $20,000 in jewelry were undoubtedly lost.

The boat's safe with contents was soon recovered, and those of the passengers who had deposited their money in the office, were saved from loss in that particular.

INCIDENTS.—Mr. Wheatley, from California, with his wife and child, jumped from the steamer and struck boldly out for the shore. The wife soon sunk to rise no more; the child was drowned clinging to the father's neck. He could not reach the shore with his child and was compelled to let it go. Mr. W. was assisted by those on shore, and saved. He had $3,500 in gold in the safe, which was recovered. He remained at the wreck to recover if possible the remains of his wife and child.

Mr. Whitlow, the mate, picked up five persons hanging to a small piece of timber. All were saved, though in two of them life was apparently extinct.

Mr. McDowell, a traveling agent of a Philadelphia house, lost $20,000 worth of jewelry, saving nothing but his pantaloons, without either coat or hat.

Every one of those who escaped was but half clad. Some had coats and no pants, few had hats or boots, some had no covering but the comfort snatched from their berths, as they left, but their wants were soon supplied by the crews of other boats as they came up.

GENERALITY.—Mr. T. B. Flournoy, of Ark., S. R. Arnold, of Bowling Green, Ky., and N. M. Lee, of Richmond, Va., generously told all to go to the store at Laconia, and to clothe themselves, and would foot the bills, which was done.

Capt. Rogers, of the James E. Woodruff, with a noble generosity, is an honor to the steamboatmen of the West, took all who were saved and desired to come up, some one hundred in all, to Memphis free of charge, and the crew of the Rainbow to Cairo on the same generous terms, showing that the Western boatmen are humane, although looked upon by the world as outside barbarians.

Mr. Henry, of the Taylor House, Cairo, contributed in every way in his power to the comfort and relief of those who came to Cairo, and Mr. McCormick, of the Illinois Central Railroad, and the officers of the Ohio and Mississippi and of the New Albany and Salem railroads, brought them all free of charge to this point.

LIST OF THE SAVED.—The following list comprises those on the Woodruff, together with those known to be saved on board the Sovereign and Minnehaha:

Officers.
E. P. Holcroft, Captain; John H. Suirks, Clerk; M. G. Holcroft, Pilot; N. S. Holcroft, Barberkeeper; Chas. Whitlow, Mate; Wm. Aplet, Watchman; H. Harland, Engineer; G. Blake, Engineer; Jo. Basler, Greaser.

Cabin Crew.
W. W. Huston, Clerk; W. W. Lamb, Pilot; H. Holcroft, Pilot; M. Samuel, Barberkeeper; R. McKee, Mate; A. H. Merrett, Engineer; Wm. Reese, Engineer; Sam'l Scance, Carpenter; Joe Basler, Greaser.

Cabin Passengers.

Cabin Passengers.
Tozier, — Mrs. Armstrong's brother, Mrs. Clapton, Mrs. Clapton, Mr. Castleman, Mrs. Azpelt, John Bowles, Wheately, Maddox, DeHart, McFall and friend, Gentleman and lady, names Mrs. Armstrong, 4 children, unknown, servant, Mr. Garland and 3 slaves.

Deck Passengers and Hands.
Hannus Elster, Brown, Stenz, Kirwin, Needham, Ryan, Coleman, Birch, Kelly, Ellis.

LOST AND MISSING.
McGoffin, of Scott co., Ky., Leake, of Arkansas, missing; Mrs. Wheatley and child, of California, lost; Lady, name unknown, lost; Third and 4th cooks, names unknown, lost; Wm. Rochester, steward, lost; John Ashby, Jo Adkins, and Thos. Collins, deck hands, lost; Three ladies on deck, lost;

We republish the following list of names of the lost and missing, furnished by telegraphic dispatches from Memphis, and not included in the foregoing list:

Jas. Laughlin, Alliance, O.; Thos. Newhouse, Carrollton, Hiram Charlton, Ky.; Wm. Chambers, Cincinnati; Geo. Newman, Carrollton, John Galigher, Salineville, Ky.; Ohio; A blind man named Johnson, James Branard, Allegheny, James Branard, Allegheny, wife, and two daughters, going to Paducah; Jas. McLaughlin, Pittsburgh; An Irish girl going to her mother at Cannetton, Ia.; G. Craig, Birmingham, Pa.; Jas. McHaffy, McKeepsport, Mrs. Bond, Memphis, Pa.

The above comprise all the names of the lost, as far as can be recollected by Mr. Huston, the clerk. Of the crew of 37 firemen and deck hands, 12 only are known to be saved; the rest are lost or missing.

Capt. Holcroft, Mr. W. B. Huston, clerk, and the other officers and crew, as well as many passengers of the Rainbow reached the city in this morning's train from Cairo.

ADVERTISING.—There has never been a period within our remembrance than the benefits of advertising and the folly of retrenching in this department of business expense in dull times were quite so palpable as at present. The most careless observer cannot fail to note the difference between the non-advertising and the advertising stores, as he passes along Broadway. In the former there is solitude and silence—in the latter, life, activity, and the hum of bargain-seeking crowds. If there be a merchant who doubts the utility of challenging public attention through the newspaper press, let him air his scepticism in the establishments which are in constant communication with the world of consumers through this medium.

"I don't believe in advertising," is the ipse dicit of a mind afflicted with something approaching to judicial blindness. Sulky merchants, who mistake obstinacy for dignity, and refuse to descend to the courtesy of telling the public what goods you have to sell, and what prices you will take for them, we ask, "What are you doing?" We say, you are sitting in your salerooms, wrapped up in the solitude of your own originality, as free from profitable intrusion as if each of you were a mercantile Marius, crouching amid the ruins of a commercial Carthage. Deny the fact if you can. It is notorious as the sun-longed siams who keep en rapport with the public through the medium of the press, what are you doing? It is unnecessary to "pause for a reply." Work-wearied salesmen and over-tasked cashiers will testify that the "pressure" of a cash retail business, created and stimulated by wholesale advertising, beats all the other pressures of the day.

ITEMS.

Melancholy and Singular.—The strange casualty of a person being blown from a railroad train in motion by the force of the wind is not a very rare one in the annals of railroading upon the prairies. During the gale of Wednesday night a brakeman named Cushman, in the employ of the Chicago and Rock Island Railroad, was blown from his stand on the platform of a freight car, while running at full speed, the wheels passing over him, and killing him instantly.

A Poet in Luck.—M. Lamartine, whose fortune was greatly impaired by a series of bad years and his indulgence to poor tenants, has this year a magnificent crop of wine upon his Macon estate. It is said that he has sold 3,000 casks, at 80 francs each, and has subsequently realized a sum of $10,000.

Hanging.—The sentence of death in the case of Greenbury O. Mallenix, for the murder of his wife, was to have been carried into effect at Greencastle, Ind., on Friday. He has persisted in asserting that if he had not killed his wife she would have poisoned him, and that God will not punish a man for murdering a woman in self-defense.

Newspaper Coverlets.—A writer to the New York Evening Post recommends the use of newspaper as comforters or coverlets for beds, in cold weather. He uses a pound or two of old papers with the edges pasted for convenience, or spread between light covers to retain them in their place.

Music in New York.—The opera in New York, at the Academy of Music, is on its last legs. It has been kept up at the loss of $500 or $600 a night. The last alternative is to cut down the expenses, and the salaries of the artists, a resolution more easily determined than executed. Some of the artists comply and some kick against the reduction. But unless they all agree the Academy will be closed and an addition be made to the "hunger meetings."

The girls in the interior of Hoosierdom are extending their dimensions by means of grape-vine hoops—the article being cheaper than steel or whalebone.

England Recruiting in France.—The Independence Belge asserts that recruiting for the English service is going on secretly in France, and that one hundred francs bounty is given to each recruit. To make the matter appear more certain, the correspondent who furnishes this news says that he saw one thousand francs paid down, on one occasion, to ten recruits. The men thus raised are, it is said, to be sent to India, by way of Alexandria and Suez, as quietly as possible, and, when arrived at their destination, are to be commanded by French officers.

ARTIFICIAL FISH-BREEDING CARRIED INTO SUCCESSFUL OPERATION IN CONNECTICUT.—We are pleased to be able, at length, to announce the first practical attempt in the United States to propagate fish by artificial means. Private experiments in a small way have doubtless been made in many instances; but we believe no systematic and extensive plan to this end has hitherto been carried into operation on this side of the Atlantic. The spot selected for the trial is Saltonstall lake, a beautiful sheet of water lying chiefly in the town of East Haven, and only a few miles from the sound. This lake is some four miles long and nearly a mile wide. It is fed by a living stream from a piece of woods at its head on the north, and along the path or channel of this stream, for a distance into the lake of about two miles from its embouchure, a portion of the impregnated fish's eggs which are used in the experiment have been placed, resting in a bed of gravel.

Carl Muller, formerly a resident of Saxony, but now of New York, has, in company with two or three others, purchased the right of fishing in this lake; and the Legislature, at its last session, passed an act which effectively protects them in these rights. In pursuance of the design, Mr. Muller has been to Lake Ontario and Lake Michigan, from which region he has just returned with some five millions of the eggs of the lake trout. The business of depositing, or placing these eggs in Saltonstall lake was done yesterday, Nov. 17th, 1857, under the supervision of Mr. Muller. These eggs, when collected, filled the space of half a barrel. Before putting them in the water, in case it is in the bed of a stream, a sort of bed is prepared for their reception by placing upon the bottom, stones and gravel, in such a manner as to save the eggs from being washed away, and perhaps also in a measure to protect them from the rapacity of pickerel and other fish. The eggs were placed in different positions, chiefly near the Western shore, which is rocky and abrupt, and in water of two to four feet deep. They are expected to hatch next March.

The fish multiply with great rapidity, and excellent fishing is anticipated in the course of two or three years time. Mr. Muller, who has had experience in these matters at home in Germany, is very confident of the entire success of the project. He regards Saltonstall Lake as the best lake for the purpose that he has yet met with. "In addition to the eggs of the lake trout, which have thus been deposited in this beautiful sheet of water, another million of eggs, from the well known white fish of Lake Michigan, were also put down.

These fish-eggs, particularly those of the lake trout, are worth examining. They are about as large as "double B" shot, and are obtained already in an impregnated state. The difference between those which are impregnated with the milt of the male fish, and those which are not, is clearly seen by the eye; the former are quite translucent, and have a darker colored spot in the center, which is the germ of the embryo fish. The unimpregnated eggs are opaque, and milky-looking.

Eggs of other fish are to be procured and placed in the lake. Among them, we understand, is those of the togue, or large gray trout of the lakes of Maine, which sometimes attain a weight of 40 lbs.

It is thought to be a distinct species.

RIGHTS OF WIDOWS IN MASSACHUSETTS.—"September ye 5, 1749. Then did Nathan Shearmane take the widow Mary tailor, in her shift, without head cloth, and barefoot, and led her across the highway, where the two highways mett, as the law directs in such cases, and was then married according to law, by Mr. Philip Taber, minister of Dartmouth. MS. Records of Dartmouth, extracted by J. L., 1856.

The above appeared in the January number of the Historical and Geological Register without comment. An elderly friend informed me that within his recollection a similar occurrence took place in Little Compton, R. I. The ceremony was performed from a belief that the husband elect was thereby released from all pecuniary liabilities contracted by the widow previous to her marriage with him. Possibly this custom had its origin in the mother country. Can any antiquarian throw light upon the subject. —Boston Transcript.

Four Hundred Thousand Pounds of Mineral in one Piece.—A gentleman informs us that at the celebrated "Big Lead" of Mann, Hunsacker, & Co., near Fairplay, Grant county, Wisconsin, there is upon the ground at present a pile of lead ore estimated to contain four hundred thousand pounds! At $40 per thousand, this would amount to the snug little sum of sixteen million of dollars! A panacea for the crisis, indeed! But what old miner could ever realize it?—there is no sale for the mineral now-a-days! Our informant says they make out to get enough currency each week to pay off their hired help, by selling for $20 per thousand. Such times cannot last. This "lead" is only six or eight miles from Durleth; a trip thither will be good for sore eyes.—Dunleth Adv., 1857.
